

Join the Volition family for one summer and become part of a team with many years of industry experience and a deep know-how in the development of AAA games. Our teams are the architects of fantastic open worlds, the voices behind some of the craziest characters in gaming and the creators of the critically acclaimed Saints Row and Red Faction series – and they are eager to share their knowledge and mentor you!

At Volition we believe in fostering an open and collaborative environment that allows you to grow your skills and realize your full creative potential during your internship! Do you have a passion for production and strive to make a career out of it?

We are looking for a highly qualified Production Intern to help work on our latest game!

Responsibilities

- Assist with organizing and scheduling team tasks
- Follow up on blockers and dependencies
- Help facilitate communication between leads and teams
- Bug and/or task data management

Requirements

- Degree (in progress) in game production
- Passion for video games
- Effective communication skills and a team-player attitude
- Ability to work well with others and learn quickly

Pluses

- Familiarity with project management software (Jira, Hansoft, etc.)

To apply, please send your resume and cover letter to jobs@dsvolition.com with “Production Intern” in the subject line.