MAZDACK RASSI
Co-founder and creative director of Milk
Co-founder of Milk Makeup

Mazdack Rassi is the co-founder and creative director of Milk and the co-founder of Milk Makeup.

In his time as co-founder of Milk, Rassi has built the bi-coastal business into a culturally conscious company with creative expression at the helm. Rassi's leadership has transformed Milk from a services company into the home of emerging artists in New York and Los Angeles alike.

With an understanding of the fashion, music, photography, media, and film industries, Rassi drives all business operations for Milk and has become a creative partner to global visionaries, designers, and brands throughout the last two decades. As a company that thrives on its community, Milk serves as a connector between the established and the emerging.

Rassi has steered the company through years of productions, gallery openings, Fashion Weeks, events, and cultural happenings. In 2016, he worked with his team to launch a consumer product made for Milk's community: Milk Makeup.

In addition to managing Milk, Rassi is an active board member of Burton, Autism Tomorrow, Parsons School of Design, and The New York City Ballet.

Faculty Address

JOHN MOORE

Professor, Biology, Parkland College

John Moore was born and raised in Detroit, Michigan. After graduating high school in 1970, he moved to Grand Rapids to attend Grand Valley State College (now Grand Valley University), where he received his bachelor's degree in biology, cum laude, in 1974. During his senior year at Grand Valley, he began doing forensic analysis for the Grand Rapids Police Department crime lab. From 1974 to 1976, he attended Southern Illinois University Carbondale while obtaining his master's degree in physiology. In 1978–1979, he withdrew from a physiology PhD program at the University of Illinois to take a full-time teaching position as visiting lecturer in anatomy at the UIUC School of Basic Medical Sciences. At the same time, he was hired part-time to teach evening anatomy and physiology courses at Parkland College.

In 1980, Moore received a full-time, tenure-track teaching position at Parkland College, teaching predominantly anatomy, physiology, and pathophysiology. Later in his tenure at Parkland, he also taught surgical anatomy, cross-sectional anatomy, head and neck anatomy, cat anatomy, and forensic science. Based on his background and ranking in Isshin Ryu Karate (currently Godan Renshi), he also taught beginning and advanced karate classes at Parkland for several years.

Over the years, Moore attended many workshops and short courses around the country relating to forensic osteology. (This was prior to colleges and universities initiating degrees in forensics.) He eventually accumulated enough expertise and exposure in the field to begin offering national workshops as well as consulting with various police departments and entities throughout Illinois.

In August 2020 and driven predominantly by the COVID-19 pandemic, Moore reluctantly retired from Parkland after over 40 years of outstanding instruction and service to the college and community.

Honorary Associate Degree Recipient

DR. PAUL KUNKEL
Retired Parkland College Administrator

“Last of the pioneers” is what people call the fast-diminishing circle of the earliest Parkland College staff members, according to retired administrator Dr. Paul Kunkel. “I was lucky to be a part,” he adds. Parkland is lucky to have benefited from his outstanding service to the college.

A native of Kansas, Dr. Kunkel graduated high school in North Dakota and attended a private college in Idaho, majoring in philosophy and minoring in English literature. He completed a graduate degree in religious studies and later accepted a role as director of admissions and assistant registrar for his undergraduate alma mater. After five and a half years, he was selected to receive a National Defense Education Act grant, which he used to complete his master’s degree in education and his doctorate in educational administration.

In 1963, Dr. Kunkel began working at Southern Illinois University Edwardsville, which at that point had a campus but no permanent buildings. “My office was in the garage of a farmhouse on the site,” he remarked. After managing the school’s office for institutional research and assisting the vice president for business affairs, he left SIUE in 1968 for a brief stint in Iowa City with American College Testing.

During Dr. Kunkel’s time with ACT, Parkland College President William M. Staerkel once again asked him to join Parkland’s administrative staff; he had declined the offer years earlier due to his mother’s failing health. Dr. Kunkel moved to Champaign-Urbana in 1971 and served as director of development, a role that soon included the establishment of the Parkland College Foundation. He was the foundation’s first director. “President Staerkel made it clear that I was not to be asking for money, but rather for strong community support and loyalty,” he said. “It happened beyond our best dreams.”

Dr. Kunkel fondly recalls the many other titles, assignments, and community associations he had while at Parkland: He was an official emeritus member of the Association for Institutional Research (AIR) and of Phi Delta Kappa, an international public education support organization. He was also an active member of the Illinois Community College Board Research Advisory Council and of the Lions Club, where he will soon celebrate 50 years of membership.

Dr. Kunkel retired from Parkland in 1994. Some of his most cherished memories there include drafting the format for upgrading the college catalog and course listings; overseeing preparation of the first affirmative action statement; planning the format and function of the Flag Lounge and Gallery Lounge; acting as unofficial curator of the “distributed collection” of art pieces around campus; and fighting to save the area overlooking the outdoor fountain as the designated spot for the Parkland College Art Gallery (now the Giertz Gallery at Parkland College).

Trustee Greetings

BIANCA T. GREEN
Chair, Parkland College Board of Trustees

Bianca Green is General Counsel for the State Universities Retirement System of Illinois, where she is responsible for providing legal advice and guidance for the administration of a $19 billion public pension fund. Prior to accepting this position, Green served as the president of Illinois Mediation Services, Inc., a mediation company she founded in response to the growing need for independent mediation services in Illinois. She began her business after 16 years as a civil litigation partner with the Champaign law firm Thomas, Mamer & Haughey. In addition to serving as a member on the Parkland College Board of Trustees since 2015, Green has also served as a board member for Cunningham Children's Home, CASA, the Executive Club of Champaign County, and the Champaign County Bar Association.

Trustee Green and her husband Jim reside in Champaign with their daughters, Stella and Maris.

President Remarks

THOMAS R. RAMAGE, ED.D.
President, Parkland College

Dr. Thomas R. Ramage joined Parkland College in July 1998 as chair of the Distance and Virtual Learning department, which was responsible for developing and administering Parkland's online course delivery systems and policies.

In June 2007, Dr. Ramage began serving as interim president of Parkland College. The Board of Trustees of Community College District 505 appointed him as Parkland's fifth president in January 2008. He serves as the chief executive officer of Parkland College and is responsible to the trustees to implement the philosophy, goals, and policies of Parkland College, overseeing more than 730 employees.

He received his Master of Arts in education and human development with a specialization in educational technology leadership from The George Washington University in 1998, and a doctorate in education with a specialization in instructional technology and distance education from Nova Southeastern University. His research focused on cost efficiency and return on investment of online programs.

Dr. Ramage and his wife Michelle, superintendent of Rantoul City Schools, District #137, have a son, Colin, and daughter-in-law, Megan.
